

What to do with my DrChrono account if I've sold my practice?

If you've sold your account and would like your DrChrono account and all of your patient information to transfer to another provider, please contact your account manager for assistance.

As the owner of the practice, you are responsible for payment and data. After a transfer of ownership is complete, the new provider will have access to all of your patient's historical information. If you don't know who your account manager is, please reach out to support and they will be happy to assist.
